In Grip Of Record
Breaking Heat

Cooling breezes from the north-west, which tempered the June heat wave for a few hours, driving the mercury down to a minimum of 96 during last night from a maximum of 93, reached yesterday afternoon, failed to retard the upward swing of the temperature today, for at 1 o'clock the government thermometer registered 91—one degree higher than it was Thursday at the same hour.

RELIEF IS PROMISED

Chicago, June 9.—(AP)—A definite promise of immediate relief from the hottest June heat wave on record was announced by the Weather Bureau today as expected rains failed to arrive to cool off Chicago and other sections of Illinois.

C. A. Donnel, Chief Forecaster, said temperatures today would remain in the middle 80's, well above normal, but cool in contrast to the 100 and the high ninety mark readings of the past few days.

As yesterday, the hottest June 8 on record in most cities of the state, drew to a close the death toll from the heat rose to 22 in Illinois, eighteen died in Chicago.

Farmers at Mt. Vernon, Ill., plowed their corn fields by moonlight last night to escape the scorching rays of the sun which they said were beginning to effect the horses and mules.

Heat Record Breaker

Record breaking temperatures continued to bake vast stretches of the eastern half of the nation today, bringing reports of deaths that approached the century mark.

And while some portions of the affected areas, notably the extreme southern and eastern parts of the Great Lakes region were enjoying moderate relief from the devastating effects of the week's intensely high temperature readings, the east saw no prospect for lower figures until tonight when local thunder showers may ease the situation.

The nation's metropolis—New York—suffered yesterday with a record-breaking June 8 temperature of 92, with one heat death and two drownings, but it was in the middle-west where the death figures mounted.

Dozens Overcome
Illinois alone counted 22 dead in three days of the heat wave. Eighteen of the fatalities were in Chicago, where the thermometer shot up to 97—a new all time record for a June 8—and then began to recede, with a drop of ten degrees promised for today.

Dozens of persons were overcome and treated in Chicago hospitals, including eight visitors to the city's Century of Progress Exposition.

Cleveland was scorched under an all time heat record of 98 for the day and reported that eleven were known to have died in Ohio during the past two days from the heat, with two others losing their lives by drowning.

Detroit likewise tried to keep cool but couldn't as the mercury went to a record breaking June 8 figure of 100. Eight dead from the heat were counted in Michigan and two were drowned.

Drownings were very common throughout the affected sections as residents took to the streams and beaches Indiana listed four drownings; Kentucky, five; Wisconsin, four; Baltimore, one.

Indiana reported eight dead from the heat itself.

Illinois Farmer
"Shanghaied" And Taken To San Jose

San Jose, Calif., June 9.—(AP)—Telling a story of having been kidnapped by two men when he stepped from a store in Rensselaer, Ill., last Thursday, Garrie Dawson 29, who said he was a farmer, was held in the county jail here last night pending word from relatives.

Dawson told officers the two men had forced him into his own machine, kept him a prisoner during the ride to California, and upon reaching San Jose had forced him from the car and driven away.

President Decides To Allow
Congress To Pass On Tariff
Treaties He May Negotiate

Washington, June 9.—(AP)—President Roosevelt is preparing a statement of his policies on tariff reciprocity to clarify the situation resulting from his decision not to send a tariff resolution to Congress.

The Presidential declaration is expected to set forth his hopes to enter into reciprocal agreements with the other nations for a general lowering of tariff walls.

However, instead of obtaining full authority from Congress before-hand to negotiate these treaties

Walter Johnson

Cleveland, June 9.—(AP)—Walter Johnson, the "Big Train" of baseball for many years, was named Manager of the Cleveland Indians today. He formerly managed the Washington Senators.

Johnson will succeed Roger Peckinpaugh, whose regime has been reported frequently to be unsatisfactory to the Indians.

The team has been losing more than half of its starts of late, and dropped from first place to fifth in the American League race.

The selection of Johnson came as a complete surprise to the experts, all of whom were picking various other baseball figures for Peck's job.

The selection was announced on the heels of an infrequent meeting of the board of directors of the club.

COMPROMISE ON VETERANS' BILL
REPORTED TODAY

The House Committee Has Accepted Terms Of Chief Executive

BULLETIN

Washington, June 9.—(AP)—The House Democratic Steering committee today unanimously accepted a modification of President Roosevelt's compromise proposal on veterans' cuts and made plans to bring it up for House action tomorrow.

The decision was reached at a joint meeting of the special Veterans' committee and the Steering committee.

Representative Pou (D., N. C.) who acted as spokesman for the Steering committee, said:

"We had a very harmonious meeting. We substantially agreed to the form of a rule which will probably be presented to the House this afternoon and considered tomorrow."

"The meeting unanimously accepted the report made to it by the special Veterans' committee. The compromise proposal will be included in the rule and will be made public only after the Rules committee approves it." A meeting of the Rules committee was called immediately.

Pou declined to make public any details of the compromise.

Washington, June 9.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's compromise proposal on veterans' cuts has been accepted by the special House Veterans' committee with clarifying modifications.

The Connally amendment, opposed by Roosevelt, would have increased veterans' outlays $17,000,000 and cut the savings under the economy act from $20,000,000 to $15,000,000.

Eradication Of Wild
Berry And Currant
Bushes Urged

A group of the United States reforestation corps may be located soon in the vicinity of Lowell Park, it became known today. The workers, if brought to Dixon will be engaged for several weeks in the removal of wild gooseberry and currant bushes in the park, which have been detrimental to white pine trees. Federal and state inspectors have conducted an investigation of the park and recommended the removal of the bushes, which abound in large numbers.

During the spring the white pines throughout the park and in the nursery at the park entrance, apparently were infected with a rust which threatened to kill the young trees.

H. N. Putnam, Associate Pathologist of the United States Department of Agriculture, and William R. Jack, Inspector for the Division of Plant Industry of Illinois, came to Dixon and spent several days in the park, studying conditions. At the conclusion of their visit they pronounced "white pine rust" as the cause for the condition of the pines and the former advised the removal of all of the wild gooseberry and currant bushes from the park property. The experts attributed the presence of the rust to these bushes.

Thousands of Bushes
The investigation disclosed thousands of wild gooseberry bushes throughout the park and a small number of wild currants. The federal pathologist's report indicated that a contingent of the reforestation group might be sent to Dixon to carry on the eradication of the offensive shrubs. The presence of the shrubs to the white pine forest at the Pines state park and the Sinissippi farm near Oregon where ex-Governor Frank O. Lowden has planted 500,000 white pine trees as a part of an extensive program on his estate, provided grounds for an eradication program before the young trees became infected and were killed.

According to the experts the rust is communicable to the white pine from the wild gooseberry and currant. At Sinissippi farm thousands of both bushes have been destroyed. It was estimated that with a reforestation group camped at Lowell park the property could be cleaned of the offensive bushes in about five weeks. According to the experts the rust is communicable for a distance of about 25 miles.

At present the Dixon Park Board has not decided whether the program of eradication of the offensive bushes will be carried on this summer or not and is awaiting a definite report from the Federal department. President Louis Pitcher of the park board is in receipt of reports from the Federal department which recommend the complete eradication of all wild gooseberry and currant bushes in the park.

ILLINOIS HOUSE
VOTES CITIES A
GAS TAX SHARE

Horner Holding Threat
Of Special Session
Up To Legislators

Springfield, Ill., June 9.—(AP)—Diversion of one third of the three cent gas tax, to municipalities for use on through highways was approved today by the House of Representatives, without argument.

The bill, part of the Hunter Road Commission's program, would divide gas tax receipts equally between the state, counties and municipalities for highway construction and maintenance.

The present law gives two cents of the tax to the state and one cent to the counties.

The bill now goes to the Senate.

Special Sessions Likely

Special sessions of the legislature became more probable today as Governor Horner announced that he "wanted action" on his entire nine-point program before adjournment.

The Governor expressed a desire that the House act soon to take from committees the bills broadening the powers of the Commerce and Tax Commissions.

He reiterated the opinion that "lobbyists are responsible" for the failure of the committees to recommend the bills during recent weeks.

There is a possibility that the Governor and his advisers may take steps within a few days to force action on his general program, altering the entire complexion of the legislative situation.

It is likely that Horner will call a special session to act on any of the measures which are not passed this month.

Insists On Sales Tax

Firmly insistent upon enactment of a sales tax, the Governor said it would "take Illinois off the dole system" by January 1 and then permit entire use of proceeds in replacing the state tax of 50 cents on the $100 assessed valuation.

On the housing bills, providing for reconstruction of slum areas as a means of giving employment and improving living conditions for families of low income, were debated in the House today, with adoption of several technical amendments.

The bills are part of the Horner program advanced last week. Administration supporters defeated an attempt to kill the measures by striking the enacting clause.

AGED ROCKFORD

GIVEN LIBERTY

Complainant Against
Henry Graham Did Not Appear

Chicago, June 9.—(AP)—Henry Graham, 70-year-old Rockford distiller, was free today of charges of operating a confidence game in connection with a sale of legal whiskey.

Charges that Graham, partner in a Rockford distillery, failed to deliver $1200 worth of whiskey to Martin Fanning of Chicago were dismissed in Felony Court yesterday because Fanning failed to appear.

Judge Matthew D. Hartigan said that in such cases it was customary to dismiss the defendant if the complainant was not present to press the charges. Fanning had sworn out a warrant against Graham.

At the time of his arrest several weeks ago, Graham explained that one of his lieutenants sold whiskey certificates to Fanning but that the federal government prevented delivery because Fanning was not a legitimate dealer.

Graham said the certificates were sold under the impression that Fanning was lawfully entitled to purchase the liquor. Graham's distillery manufactures industrial alcohol, but has a supply of legal whiskey.

Grover C. Niemeyer, First Assistant State's Attorney, said today when informed of Judge Hartigan's decision that the case would not be reopened.

"We took action because Fanning complained," he said. "If he does not wish to press the charges, we assume the matter was settled to his satisfaction. We have no evidence except Fanning's testimony, and that apparently is not available."

Graham said the certificates were sold under the impression that Fanning was lawfully entitled to purchase the liquor. Graham's distillery manufactures industrial alcohol, but has a supply of legal whiskey.

Texas Girl, Mentioned In Roosevelt Divorce Action,
Denies There Is TriangleAttractive Brunette
Says She Merely Met Elliott

Dallas, Texas, June 9.—(AP)—Miss Ruth Goggins, 25 years old, attractive Fort Worth brunette, declares there is no romance between her and Elliott Roosevelt, second son of the President.

Her statement came after Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, flying to Washington, D. C., after a short visit with Elliott on the Pacific coast, declined to comment on the reported romance saying:

"I really couldn't say anything about that. You see, Elliott still is married."

Young Roosevelt, general manager of a west coast airline, has established residence in Nevada so that his present wife, the former Elizabeth Donner of Philadelphia, may sue for divorce on grounds of incompatibility. He could not be located immediately for comment but previously had declared there was no "triangle element" involved.

Mrs. Roosevelt stopped briefly in Fort Worth last night. Early in the day, at Los Angeles, she had disclosed that her son and his wife planned a divorce. Her disclosure, made as she left a hotel to take a plane for the National Capital, was immediately confirmed by Elliott.

Miss Goggins, a Wellesley College graduate, said her introduction to the President's son was in Dallas and that they had been invited to several gatherings in Fort Worth. Then she added:

"I think it is too bad to have all of this stirred up about nothing. We just happened to meet."

Young Roosevelt stopped in Fort Worth to attend a rodeo last March, enroute to Tucson, Ariz.

Conferees Agree
On Lower Postage

Washington, June 9.—(AP)—Senate and House conferees today disagreed on the Johnson amendment to the gasoline tax bill exempting municipally-owned electric plants from the three per cent power levy and the issue is to be brought up in the House for final decision.

The Senate refused to accept the House amendment to the bill transferring the three per cent power tax from consumers to producers without exempting municipally owned plants.

The conferees were agreed on all other phases of the bill containing the one cent a gallon gasoline tax for twelve months from June 30, and reducing local first class postage from three to two cents.

PEKIN, ILL. BANK MESSENGER
AND BOOKKEEPER ARE HELD UP
AT POST OFFICE: LOSS $10,000

Pekin, Ill., June 9.—(AP)—Two men held up a bank messenger and bookkeeper in front of the post office here this morning and escaped with $10,000 in currency.

Emil Pask, messenger for the Herget National Bank, and Charles Hoffer, bookkeeper, were leaving the post office for the bank, less than a block away, when they were robbed by the men, who were armed with a pistol and a sub-machine gun.

The bandits escaped in an automobile. They had waited across the street on a bench on the courthouse lawn for Pask and Hoffer to leave the postoffice.

Pekin authorities received a "tip" about three weeks ago that an attempt would be made to rob the Herget bank and a close guard had been maintained.

BULLETIN

Moscow, June 9.—(AP)—Jimmy Matten, round the world flier, landed at Beloye, Siberia, about fifty miles from Irkutsk, at 3:45 P. M. today Moscow time, (6:45 A. M. CST).

He intends to remain there until tomorrow. No details were available here but the aviator presumably was in good health and his plane was functioning well.

Moscow, June 9.—(AP)—Jimmy Matten continued his round-the-world flight today by hopping off from Krasnoyarsk, Siberia, a little more than four hours after he had arrived there from Beloye, Siberia.

The American aviator, who believes he still has a chance to establish a globe-girdling record despite setbacks by sickness, rain and plane trouble, arrived at Krasnoyarsk at 7:30 A. M. Moscow time (10:30 P. M. Thursday, CST).

He was away again for an unreported destination at 11:55 A. M. (2:55 A. M. CST.) after a hurried attempt to repair the damage his plane suffered during the forced landing at Beloye early Wednesday morning.

Objective Uncertain

Reports to Moscow were delayed by slow communication facilities so it was not learned what his next objective would be, although it was presumed that he will try for a point from which he could take off on the trans-Pacific leg of his adventure.

The Texan had apparently recovered from the nausea which had forced him to land, almost unconscious, at Beloye when he departed from that miners' settlement, waving his thanks to the hospitable soviet authorities and people who had helped him.

Everything was ready for him on his arrival in Krasnoyarsk, and it was believed that his early getaway was made possible by the presence at the airport of an interpreter and the essentials he needed.

Must Keep In Air

Matten's hope of beating Post and Gatty apparently rests in his ability to reduce the time he is on the ground henceforth. Matten was about ten hours from Irkutsk—although it is not certain that he will go there—and should he reach that city in ten hours, he would be about 145 hours out of New York. Post and Gatty took about 93 hours to reach Irkutsk, but they were grounded a total of 52 hours at Blagovestshensk, Khabarovsk and Edmonton, Can., subsequently.

Richard Redfern
Wins Scholarship

Richard Redfern of this city has been selected from a class of ten applicants for a scholarship at the University of Illinois, the result of the annual competitive examinations conducted last Saturday at the office of County Superintendent of Schools L. W. Miller. The class consisted of four applicants from Dixon and Amboy and one each from Steward and Ashton.

The result of the examination was announced by Superintendent Miller this morning. Redfern's grade being 89.4, which is the highest in many years. Some of the other grades were very close and the examination was closely contested by every applicant. As the result of the high grades and the interest manifested, County Superintendent Miller today made formal application to the University of Illinois for additional scholarships for Lee county.

ARMOUR'S LEAD IN GOLF MATCH IS ENDANGERED

Scot Had Erratic Day After Sensational Play Yesterday

North Shore Golf Club, Glenview, Ill., June 9—Despite an erratic round that almost wiped out his first day's margin, Tommy Armour of Chicago kept in front of the field in the United States Open golf championship today by adding a 75, three over par, to his previous record of 68 for a 36-hole total of 143.

This gave Armour a one stroke lead over Joe Kirkwood of Coral Gables, Fla., who had 74 to 144. Armour had a five-stroke lead over the entire field after the first round and was six shots in front of Kirkwood starting today's competition but the Black Scot did not get the "breaks" around the greens. He had five birdies, due chiefly to the accuracy of his long woods, but did not manifest consistent control of his iron shots and lapsed periodically after a bad six on the first hole.

Gene Sarazen, the defending champion, Walter Hagen, Olia Dutra and Neil White, the southern California sophomore sensation, took up the late afternoon chase after Armour and Kirkwood. Most of the other low scorers of yesterday slumped despite almost perfect playing conditions.

At its perfunctory session, the Senate advanced the Governor's insurance and minimum wage bill.

Horne declared that action is unnecessary on the Monroe occupation tax and Thompson manufacturer's tax bills before the Senate.

"The sales tax is an almost perfect bill," he said, "and gives the taxpayers a definite assurance that the state property tax will be wiped out. It wipes out this one branch of taxation and at the same time provides a definite way to meet the relief situation."

The Ladies Aid Society of St. Paul's Lutheran Church will serve supper at the church Saturday, June 10th from 5 to 7 P. M. Sandwiches, strawberry shortcake and coffee, 25 cents.

MINERS' BATTLE ZONES REPORTED FAIRLY PEACEFUL

Wives Of Christian Co. Miners Protest Coal Co. Evictions

Springfield, Ill., June 9—(AP)—The legislature today had received protests from wives of Christian county miners that families were being evicted from homes owned by the Peabody Coal Company. A petition asking that the state furnish tents to shelter women and children was presented yesterday by a delegation of women headed by Mrs. Agnes Burns Wieck of Belleville, president of the Auxiliary of the Progressive Miners of America.

Speaker Arthur Roe referred the petition to the legislative mine investigation commission and the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission.

No trouble was reported in Sangamon county mine fields today as National Guardsmen enforced Adjutant General Carlos E. Black's order against picketing.

DEPUTIES ON GUARD
Harrisburg, Ill., June 9—(AP)—Deputies were on guard here today for a possible renewal of violence which yesterday attended the opening, with United Mine Workers, of the Peabody Coal Company's No. 43 mine.

Four miners were hurt in fights between United Mine Workers and Progressive miners, who attempted to picket the mine but were dispersed by officers.

Charges of assault to murder were planned today by State's Attorney John Kane against four United Mine Workers from Eldorado, Ill., alleged to have fired at the store of Alex Kersis in West Harrisburg as they motored home after working in the mine.

Three of the miners, Dave Lever, Wiley Dillard and Elmer Hall, protested their innocence following their arrest. A fourth man was said by Kane to be sought. The bullet, which crashed through a window of the Kersis store, narrowly missed Joe Kersis, daughter of the shop keeper.

Bert Armstrong, a United Mine Worker, received a broken nose at the hands of an unidentified assailant, as he walked to the mine to begin work. Three Progressive pickets were hurt in a battle between the factions, which occurred in Williamson county.

COMPROMISE ON VETERANS' BILL REPORTED TODAY

It would have prevented more than a 25 per cent cut in allowances for service connected and presumptive cases.

Under the compromise agreement, service connected cases are reduced not more than 25 per cent, and at an average of 18 per cent. Presumptive cases are to be cut 25 per cent, instead of being stricken off the rolls as provided under regulations previously issued.

Plan Review Boards
All presumptive cases are to remain on the rolls until either September 1 or October 1. In the meantime the President is to set up boards to review them with a view to eliminating those not entitled to remain on the rolls.

The veterans would have indefinite right of appeal before boards to be composed of a majority of new men in order to give the veterans the benefit of fresh judgment.

If the Steering committee approves the compromise, the Democratic leaders will bring it out under a rule preventing a vote on the Connally amendment.

House action however, in sending the independent officers bill to conference, will be delayed until tomorrow under its rules.

Roosevelt Keeps Promise Made To His Predecessor
Washington, June 9—(AP)—The Senate Banking committee today approved the nomination of Walter Dill, who was former President Hoover's secretary as a member of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

The nomination was sent to the Senate yesterday by President Roosevelt in response to a promise he made to Hoover that he would take care of Hoover.

Newton resigned as a member of the House from Minnesota to become Hoover's secretary. He was appointed a Federal Judge for Minnesota but the Senate, as on all other nominations near the end of last session, refused to act.

Other officers chosen last evening were: Senior Warden, J. R. Witzel; Junior Warden, Charles W. Swim; Treasurer, J. B. Lennon and Secretary, Lee Read.

TRIALS

WANT no road that's only straight.
With dust clouds whitely blowing.
None such as these can lead my feet,
To where my heart is going.

But let me find a twisty path.
That keeps on crying "follow."
And rushes up a mist-white hill,
Or drops to dew-wet hollow.

Or guides me to a place of ferns,
It had not thought to see;
However crookedly it runs,
It's straight enough for me.
—Lois Canfil in "The Gypsy."

Go Right After Beauty This Summer

Whether you're lucky enough to get away or not this summer, make it as much a vacation time as possible!

It's all in the planning. And don't forget that the energy and repose you store away in your system this summer is just that much velvet on the road to beauty next winter.

For the healthy, vibrant person is really the beautiful one. Features don't make a bit of difference in the long run. Nor does color of hair or eyes. It's the spirit and contentment that you radiate that makes folks think you beautiful.

Go after beauty this summer! The first step toward beauty—health this summer is to keep as cool as possible. Wear the lightest clothes you can, and this means one of those summer girdles, you wear one. They don't cost much. And keeping cool through the waist line and over the hips is something on a torrid day.

When you get home night from work, peel off your things and take a dip and then get into a minimum of clothes. Go barefoot, if you fancy will stand it. If they won't, wear barefoot sandals. The more air you get onto your body, the better will be your health. Sneak out by yourself, find a nice spot, and get a sunbath, every chance you get. Long after winter has settled down to freeze you, the glow from summer sunbaths will still keep you feeling good.

"HAD CONSTIPATION SINCE BIRTH OF MY FIRST CHILD"

Then Mrs. King Discovered ALL-BRAN

We quote from her voluntary letter:

"I have suffered from terrible constipation since the birth of my first child—9 years ago! I have tried everything and nothing had any lasting results. Very reluctantly I tried your 'ALL-BRAN' with no faith in it at all. Much to my surprise, I have not had to take any medicine since starting to use ALL-BRAN, 4 months ago."—Mrs. Doris Eyring King, 16 Abbey Road, Oxford, England.

Laboratory tests show ALL-BRAN contains two things which overcome constipation: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines; vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes.

Certainly this is more natural than taking patent medicines—often harmful. Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

ALL-BRAN also supplies iron for the blood. At all grocers, in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Ill. Women Official Hostesses at Host Building at the Fair

Chicago, June 9—(AP)—Led by Mrs. Carter H. Harrison, Chicago, more than two score Illinois women were named as official hostesses by Governor Horner for dedicatory ceremonies Saturday of the Illinois Host Building at the Century of Progress Exposition.

Chief assistants to Mrs. Harrison were named as Mrs. Paul Steinbrecher and Mrs. Herbert L. Stern, Chicago, while the Governor honored Miss Jan Addams and Mrs. John Cornwell, president of the Chicago Gold Star Mothers, by appointing them honorary hostesses.

Downstate hostesses named included: Mrs. Frank O. Lowden of Oregon; Mrs. Louis L. Emmerson of Mt. Vernon; Mrs. R. C. Bourland of Rockford and Mrs. Aileen McGrath of Polo.

Young Men Entertain Friloha Class

The Young Men's Class of the Christian church entertained the Friloha Class of young ladies at a picnic luncheon at Lowell Park last evening. Glenn Padgett, president of the Y. M. class was master of ceremonies. Boyd Brown as head of the food committee, did himself proud in generous hospitality. The group was chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Leydig. More than three score young people surrounded the long luncheon table and enjoyed the festivities of the occasion. An impromptu ball game preceded the luncheon after which the groups of young people scattered to enjoy the beauties of the park and numerous diversions of the hour.

Entertains Three Trey Bridge Club

Mrs. Harold Rorer, formerly Miss Jean Wallace, delightfully entertained the members of the Three Trey Bridge club at her home Tuesday evening. Decorations of early summer flowers were lovely and the refreshments were delicious. The prizes at bridge were awarded Miss Mae Teschendorff, first; and Miss Cecil Barron, second. The girls in turn carried out a happy surprise for the young bride giving her a shower of useful and beautiful gifts for the new home. It proved a decidedly happy evening for everyone present.

CINE-MODES Hollywood's "Best-Dressed" Star Chooses STRIPED BLACK LINEN to Maintain Her Place in the Style-light.

LILYAN TASHMAN

By NEA Service—
HOLLYWOOD—Maintaining her reputation as the best dressed woman in Hollywood, Lilyan Tashman wears a black linen dress with white diagonal stripes.

There is much to be said for diagonal stripes and weaves this year. They completely flatter a figure worth flattering. Novelty fabrics are becoming to slender figures.

Lilyan's linen frock for street wear has a pique collar and by combining pique and linen she has achieved the most modish effect of the season.

Maureen O'Sullivan moving her belongings into her new beach home wore a short sleeved white dress topped with a turquoise blue woolen coat in an intriguing weave.

Ginger Rogers at the ping pong tournament at the Biltmore Hotel with Lew Ayres wore a sleeveless black and white dress of a lacy material. Her gray printed scarf was fastened in front with a handsome jeweled pin.

Ann Harding likes novelties, too. Arriving at the studio driving her own car she wore a white boucle cape and hat of the same material.

The hat was slit down the front to show Ann's lovely blond hair.

Wynn Gibson, lunching in the Paramount restaurant with Jack La Rue wore a tailored pique dress with blue and green plaid stripes on a white background.

The dress formed a scarf which looped high at the neck. Her coat was light brown wool and her fez was of shiny brown straw with a pique bow.

Milledgeville. The head ushers were Truman Thompson brother of the bride, and Galen Myers. They were assisted by Pius Burdard, Lily Myers, Chester Moats, and Orville LeClerc. Miss Thompson graduated from the Polo high school and was a prominent school teacher of western Ogle county, having taught in the Brookville school for three years and two years in the Henry school two miles south of Polo. She was a member of the ladies' quartet of the Brethren church of Polo which won considerable fame in northern Illinois.

Mr. Wade was attired in a medium gray and blue serge suit with a pleasing contrast of colors with the pink and white chadous of the color scheme of Miss Thompson's attendants. He is also a graduate of the Polo high school and a prominent farmer, and is at present farming eight miles northwest of Dixon where they will be at home after a few days spent on a wedding trip. Those who attended the wedding from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Ira Berry and daughter, Barbara Lou and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lowe of Ottumwa, Iowa. Hosts of friends in several counties and Dixon extend to this estimable and popular young couple best wishes for every happiness and success in the future.

Dixonites Attend Rockford O.E.S. Meet

About twenty officers, past matrons, and patrons with the present Worthy Matron, Lucille Stauffer, and Worthy Patron Victor Eichler of Dorothy Chapter O. E. S., motored to Rockford last evening where they were invited to a 6:30 banquet by Rockford Chapter No. 53, O. E. S. which was held at the Masonic Temple on Main street and proved a delightful and inspiring affair, being attended by about 250 from surrounding chapters.

Worthy Patron Eichler was invited to officiate at the O. E. S. initiation.

Miss Taylor and John Meyer Wed

Miss Margaret Louise Taylor of Oregon and John Gordon Meyer, of Oregon, were united in marriage late Tuesday afternoon in the study at the Methodist parsonage in this city, the pastor, Dr. Gilbert Stansell officiating at the quiet ceremony.

Miss Anna Margaret and Miss Frances Stansell attended the bride and bridegroom. The bride was beautifully attired in yellow crepe, wearing a white lace picture hat. She carried roses. Mr. and Mrs. Meyer left on a wedding trip to be gone some time. They expect to make their home on the groom's father's farm near Oregon. Many Dixon and Oregon friends unite in extending best wishes to this delightful young couple for future happiness.

There is a little story anent the wedding which may be of interest. It seems that during Dr. Stansell's recent critical illness which lasted many months, one of his nurses was Miss Taylor, and during the time Miss Taylor was employed at the parsonage, and afterward, when she frequently visited there, she was often accompanied naturally, by Mr. Meyer, so when they "dropped in" the other afternoon, the good parson and his family enjoyed a happy visit with their Oregon visitors and Dr. Stansell then rose to be about his many duties when the prospective bridegroom informed him that the first duty, was that which lay nearest to him, and that proved to be a wedding ceremony, and as Mr. Meyer produced the marriage license, Dr. Stansell and his two charming daughters assisted their friends in tying the nuptial knot.

Buffet Suppers Summer Nights

Cold buffet suppers are most palatable on hot summer night. Arrange all the food on one end of the table. Place plates, silver, napkins and pitchers of iced drinks on the other end. Remember that a great deal of the success of your supper party depends on the artistic and appetizing appearance of the table.

Your menu might consist of a couple of cold salads served in big bowls garnished with crisp salad greens; cold cuts of meat, pickles, hot rolls, celery and anything else you like for supper.

Desserts should be made simply so that they too can be served buffet style. A platter of assorted cheeses with crisp crackers will add to the beauty of the table and be delicious as well.

Seventy at Meeting Of Shepherds Class

The Shepherds Class of the Grace Evangelical Sunday school with their families numbering about seventy enjoyed a meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Johnson of Sterling avenue last evening, the meeting being held on the beautiful lawn. Refreshments of ice cream, cake and lemonade were served.

TEA GOWN FASHIONED OF PRINTED CREPE

PARIS—(AP)—The Duchesse de Caylus attended a recent smart tea wearing a striking afternoon gown of black and white formal printed crepe. With it she wore a simple black wool coat trimmed with silver fox. Her hat and gloves were black.

Spare the Children Heart Strain

You have read, no doubt, of the two-year-old child who died of heart failure when bitten on the cheek by a chow dog, a pet of the family.

I rather imagine this sad news has been doubted by some people. "Older people frequently die of fright, but for a child to do so is incredible!" they say. It is not incredible. Every now and then we hear of a child dying of shock or sudden terror. True, it is not common, but it does happen.

Certainly, the parents of the baby have the sympathy of the whole country. But I wonder if all mothers may not learn a few things from this accident. Such things, although a tragedy to the family, often bring in their wake a certain benefit to others. They open our eyes and make us think and we begin to take precautions that otherwise would be overlooked.

Be Careful of Strains
No, it is not right to remove dogs. If we were to do that we should have to remove a hundred and one things from a child's life, any one of which is likely to frighten or even to kill him.

What we need to do, I think, is to realize that hearts are subject to various kinds of strain, some of which kill quickly, but most of which merely weaken it. Every time the heart is weakened it is just one little bit more susceptible to shock than it was before. Also very much weakening tends to permanent heart trouble.

Doctors today are very much alarmed by the rapidly increasing number of cases of "heart disease" in children.

Illness is Weakening
Heart disease may mean several things. One is derangement due to nerve control. This condition often follows a serious illness. A child who has had a long and serious illness should be watched very carefully for a long while after he has apparently convalesced. Because the heart muscle itself is often weakened by the germ poison of the disease.

Permanent dilatation is not a frequent disease of childhood, because the heart of a child is elastic and the stretching after an over-exertion is likely to subside in a well child. If the heart is weakened, however, these muscles may stay permanently dilated. Also there may be valvular imperfections, or other trouble in the heart structure itself.

It is very necessary therefore to prevent all over-exertion after an illness until the heart, sometimes long in returning to normal, may be trusted to do its work.

We should think of hearts. All fear weakens them. It need not be a dog. Children have died from fear of a whipping.

W. R. C. Memorial Service on Monday

The W. R. C. members will meet Monday afternoon at 2:30 at G. A. R. hall. Reports of the department convention will be held at this time. After the meeting memorial services for deceased members will be held at the grave of Mrs. Dorothy N. Law, at Oakwood.

Ample Sleep Of Benefit to Eye

The best eyes in the world feel the strain of continued sun glare. If your eyes are the least bit weak, humor them. If you frown constantly, the chances are that you need glasses. If you need them, by all means get them. Perhaps you will only have to wear them to read and for close work. Good, sound sleep, eight hours nightly, is one of the best ways to humor tired eyes. For your eyes, you know, give first warnings when you are fatigued, overstrained or in any way tired.

Plain diet, with plenty of fruit and vegetables and all the water you can drink between meals helps strained eyes, too. For your eyes are particularly sensitive when you have any touch of stomach trouble.

CINE-MODES

Knitted Sportswear Hollywood Vogue

Blue Is Chic on White

By NEA Service
Hollywood—Crocheted things, bouclé suits, hand-knitted hats, sweaters, belts and bags give interest to outfits seen these days.

Roughly woven white will make a two-piece sports suit that Ruth Channing wears, with royal blue for royal touches. The skirt has very deep inverted box pleats and the pull-over sweater, which she often wears over a polo shirt, has its cool neckline of the blue.

Jeannette Meehan with Andy Devine at a party at Una Merkel's, wore a pale blue yellow knitted shirt with a tailored white flannel suit. The little shirt had very short sleeves and collar worn open at the throat. She wore yellow suede beret and pique gloves with gauntlet cuffs of yellow.

Miriam Jordan, lunching at the Ambassador Hotel with an unknown man, wore a tailored gray suit decorated with a knot of red carnations on the lapel and a lacy woven red knitted blouse. Her straw sailor was black, with a black banding over a red banding which showed a bit at the top.

Loretta Young has a one-piece knitted gray dress, with a drop yoke and short, puffed sleeves in a very lacy stitch, the rest period. She wears crimson accessories.

Alice Brady, coming out of the El Capitan Theater after a preview of her latest picture, escorted by Alex McKaig, wore a stunning white bouclé suit, with a navy blue and white scarfs and white hat.

Each or digestive trouble.

Just plain eye strain should be avoided. Don't read in bright sunlight. You know yourself how hard it is on your eyes. Don't stay hours in the sun without covering your eyes. And don't sit too far down (or too far back) when you go to the movies. Both locations are a strain to eyes that have any defect whatsoever.

Are You Rundown, Nervous?

ALL women at some period of their lives need a strengthening tonic like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Read what Mrs. M. Johnson, of 502 Third St., Rock Island, Ill., has to say about it: "At one time a relative was in a badly rundown condition; she was awfully nervous and was very irritable and restless. She complained of headaches and never seemed inclined to eat anything—was tired and listless all the while. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription seemed to get right to the seat of the trouble and it was no time at all before she had more strength and energy and did not seem nearly so nervous." Write to Dr. Pierce's Clinic, Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice.

THE VISION OF A NEW ERA FOR AMERICA

It would take a seer of uncommon ability to tell just where we are going to be when the present time of trial is over; but now and then even the least prophetic of men must feel a thrill of excitement at the enormous possibilities that are inherent in the situation.

In our fight to get out of the depression, start the wheels moving and put men back to work there is more than a chance that we shall take a longer stride along the road toward genuine freedom and happiness than would have seemed possible half a decade ago.

Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, touched on this in a speech before the Girls' Work Section of the New York Welfare Council not long ago.

"As we go about building up the purchasing power of the American people in the next year," she said, "we may find that we have built up a new kind of civilization."

"We recognize that our mass production system cannot go on unless we consciously build up the purchasing power of the people who work in this country, and we are recognizing that out of the building up of this purchasing power—by artificial or other means—may come a blessing beyond anything we in our generation have ever dared to dream of."

Words are often deceptive things. That little expression, "building up purchasing power," for instance; we say it glibly, and we think of manufacturers' ledgers and busy salesrooms as we say it, but back of it there are human values which are simply dazzling to contemplate.

Suppose, for instance, that we succeed in building up this purchasing power, by one means and another, for one of those large blighted areas in the nation—those areas where people struggle along through year after year of hopeless poverty, existing rather than living, lacking all luxuries and many necessities. What do we do?

We enable these people to house, clothe and feed themselves properly. We enable them to give their children a chance at the good things of life; a chance at health, happiness, leisure, ambition, contentment. We let them lift themselves up to a new level. We replace misery and despair with joy and hope.

It is chances like that which are opening up in our fight with the depression. Winning the fight means more than simply setting the factory chimneys smoking again. It can mean, as Miss Perkins says, building a new kind of civilization.

SHIFTING POPULATION

It will be interesting to see whether the end of depression will bring any change to the striking new shifts in American population growth.

Figures compiled by the Scripps Foundation for Population Research show that during 1932 American cities as a whole decreased in population by more than 400,000 persons. Farm population, on the other hand, increased in that year by 1,000,000.

A great part of this is undoubtedly due to the depression. The cityward migration of farm youth was checked; and cast numbers of ex-ruralites who lost their city jobs retreated to their parents farm homes for the duration of hard times. Let prosperity come back and the old tendency probably would be resumed.

But we can't be quite certain about it. There are good reasons for believing that most of our large cities are about as large now as they ever will be. A movement toward decentralization seems to have begun. How far is it apt to continue, and what will its ultimate effects be?

When I was a boy, we didn't care a tinker's dam for a boy who wore shoes. We regarded him as a sissy and wouldn't associate with him.—Senator Carter Glass of Virginia.

If you want to get the real picture of a man, go with him on a hunting trip.—Fred Masse, Michigan trapper.
The average American likes to think of himself as an incipient capitalist.—Sherwood Anderson, novelist.

In all my experience I have found only two people whose handwriting was the same, and they were twins.—Bert C. Farrar, handwriting expert for U. S. treasury.

Training lions and tigers is no more cruel than the process through which dogs and ponies are taught their tricks.—Clyde Beatty, animal trainer.

The average executive of today finds himself hesitating to take many steps which he knows must ultimately be taken.—Phil H. Grennan, San Francisco manufacturer.

Jaded, unmoral, burned-out philanderers excite the minds of young people by moving pictures and low-class literature.—Dr. Samuel S. Drury, headmaster, St. Paul's School.

Beer will unlock the pianos of the nations.—Gene Buck, of the American Society of Composers.

Methodist ministers form the most unbulldozable group in modern society.—Dr. Henry Cragie, Scranton, Pa.

Children's Days

Sunday school at 9:30 A. M. Divine worship at 10:40 with a Children's Day service. The children will offer their praises of thanks—given in word and song.

The sermon will be especially for the children. This should be an inspiring service for both young and old. A banner attendance is expected. The church bulletin will contain a brief biography of the student pastor who is to conduct the services during the months of July and August when the local pastor and his family will be on a recuperation trip. The pastor will attend Synod at Chicago this coming week.

No services on Sunday, June 18. The English Communion Service will be observed June 25th.

There will be a strawberry and ice cream social at the Jacobs Home, Wednesday, June 21st.

Ashton will observe Mission Festival Sunday, June 25th.

Several students from our Wartburg College are putting on a film with scenes from different parts of Germany, including the Wartburg where Luther translated the New Testament and other places made famous because of their association with Martin Luther. BAER IS LIKELY NEXT CHAMPION OF THE HEAVIES

His Ruthless Attack Stopped Schmeling In Tenth Round

New York, June 9 —(AP)—A roisterous young blade from out of the west, with thunder in his brawny fists and all the "killer instinct" he has any use for, stood today a threatening menace to Jack Sharkey's crown.

Victor last night over Max Schmeling by a crushing tenth round knockout that left 65,000 spectators pop-eyed with amazement, Max Baer of California, established himself the greatest young heavyweight to crash the big scene since Jack Dempsey whittled down Jess Willard at Toledo.

"I'm going to win that championship!" he shouted as a shower swept away every trace of the big combat. Not one of the vast crowd that saw him floor Schmeling with a murderous right and then, a few seconds later have him on the ropes helpless, will argue the point.

Referee Saved German
A minute and 51 seconds of the tenth round had ticked away when Referee Arthur Donovan stepped forward, mercifully, to lift Baer's hand and spare the game German further punishment. Sagging, ready to drop, his guard down and his eyes glazed, Schmeling was an open target for a punch that might have done lasting injury. There was not a dissenting voice from the massed thousands in Yankee Stadium.

The scene was an eye-full for Jack Sharkey and Primo Carnera, both of whom peered attentively from ringside chairs as Baer, a far greater fighter than he had been given credit for, battered down his man. One or the other, the victor in their championship fight later in the month, probably will get a chance to sample the Baer dynamite, and it is doubtful now that either relishes the prospect.

Fighting as he did last night, at the same vicious pitch, the man from California would be a favorite to tear through Sharkey's guard and stretch him on the canvas, or to cut down the gigantic Carnera with the fury of his attack. He apparently is immune to punishment, and his own right is like the kick of a mule.

"I don't know what happened," said the dazed Schmeling as he sat disconsolate, removing his ring togs. It was evident the sudden, sharp conclusion of the combat, five rounds before the scheduled finish, had him shell-shocked.

He wasn't hurting me, so I got careless and opened up. Wham, I thought a house had fallen on me."

Too Much Right
It was the first time Schmeling ever had been on the floor since he first came to the United States five years ago. He had built up a legend of immunity to the stiffest punches, but he hadn't run into a right like the one Baer was tossing last night.

The only bluish attached to the young Californian's victory was his frequent use of a backhand blow that brought warnings from the referee and razzberries from the crowd. Baer used it at times like he was punching a bag, when he backed Schmeling into the ropes and beat away at him calmly, brutally. But the audience forgave him that after the big climax.

So confident was Baer's manager, Anell Hoffman, of the ultimate result that he sent his superbly conditioned young man into the battle with absolute orders not to open up until after the fifth round. That despite odds which were as high as 4 to 1 in Schmeling's favor at fight time.

Bided His Time
Baer, however, couldn't resist the temptation to swing a few, and in the first two rounds he launched two-fisted attacks that left his smiling antagonist all over the ring. That satisfied him and from there on he was content to bide his time.

Schmeling, taking advantage of Baer's letup, crowded in with a short, sharp attack that won him his only three rounds of the fight, the fourth, sixth and seventh. Experts at the ringside settled back, confident the Californian had shot his bolt, that the German would slowly, efficiently cut him to pieces the rest of the way. The crowd booed the Livermore product very heartily as he backed around listlessly, or stood in his corner and let Schmeling pour in blows.

Then came the fire works. Starting the eighth, Baer really began coming over the mountain. He rushed out with a mean look on his face for the first time, so long as smiling, and he socked Schmeling with everything in the book, both long and short range.

Terrific Attack
In the ninth he nailed the German against the ropes twice and measured him with terrific wallop to the jaw. When Schmeling's guard went up, fists dug into his middle. They were in a furious mixup at the bell, slugging away until the Referee parted them.

Schmeling stumbled once as he walked to his corner. Baer wasted little time finishing his man in the tenth. They came out of a clinch in mid-ring, when the Californian's right hand darted out like the head of a cobra and thudded on the point of the German's jaw. Down he went sprawling on his back, then rolled over to watch the timekeeper. He barely rose as the count reached nine.

Serious as a cyclone for perhaps the first time in his jolly young life, Baer sailed into his battered rival with a flurry of punches. Schmeling covered up, slid along the ropes in a desperate effort to escape. But Baer was on top of him, throwing his 208 pounds into every shot.

A left doubled Schmeling up, and a terrific right sent him slumping against the post in a neutral corner. That was the end.

The crowd paid $239,195.55 to witness one of the most sensational battles of recent years and to assure a fair profit for Jack Dempsey in his first big promotional venture.

FOXX REGAINED HIS EYE WITH GOMEZ ON MOUND

Athletic Slugger Hit Three Homers In Yankee Defeat

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, "R Associated Press Sports Writer
Philadelphia fans figuratively shedding tears over the failure of Jimmie Foxx to live up to the proud boasts they made for him when he debuted 58 home runs last season, apparently can dry their eyes and start cheering him on toward record achievements once more.

Jimmie looked very much like the cloutier of 1932, when he blasted his way back into the thick of the fight at the expense of the mighty Yankees yesterday. With the redoubtable Lefty Gomez as his mound opponent, Foxx crashed three home runs, batted in five tallies and was a leading figure in the 19 hit attack that gave the Athletics their first victory of the season over the Yankees, 14 to 11.

For a while, Foxx was tied with Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig for the big league home run lead with 11, but after the A's had put the game away with a six run rally in the eighth, the Babe reasserted his supremacy by passing his twelfth.

Another Philadelphia-New York game was decided on long distance slugging as the Giants, who have given New York a monopoly on first places for the first time in years, turned back the Phillies, 7-5. Mel Ott's seventh homer of the year was the winning blow after four baggers by Homer Peel and Bill Terry had brought in the other Giant runs.

Senators Split Even
Washington's Senators lost loose against Boston with 17 hits in the second game of a doubleheader to win 12-3 after they had "blown" a 4-3 decision in the opener. The even break gave them second place in the American League once more as Detroit ended the six game winning streak of the Chicago White Sox with an eleven inning, 3-2 triumph when Catcher Frank Grube dropped a throw and let the winning run count.

The St. Louis Browns continued Cleveland's losing streak to five games by pounding out a 5-3 decision.

Dizzy Dean of the St. Louis Cardinals outpointed Lonnie Warneke of the Chicago Cubs, giving only three hits to win 2-1. The victory kept the Cards only a few points behind the Giants while Chicago lost a good chance to take third place when the Pittsburgh Pirates suffered an 8-2 setback at the hands of the Cincinnati Reds and their old "jinx" Moundsman, Eppa Rixey.

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press.)

Joe Kuhel, Senators — Rapped Boston pitching for two doubles and four singles in doubleheader.
Carl Hubbell, Giants — Held one run lead through last four innings, holding Phillies to one hit.
John Stone, Tigers — Hit homer in ninth to tie score against the White Sox.

Chick Hafey, Reds — Walloped two doubles against Pirates.
Jimmie Foxx, Athletics — Clouted three homers against Yankees, and walked to score fourth run.
Dizzy Dean, Cardinals — Limited Cubs to three hits, fanning five.
Art Cohnen, Browns — Led attack on Cleveland with triple and double.

Soft Ball League Meeting Postponed

A meeting of the officers and managers of teams of the city soft ball league which was to have been held Monday evening at 8 o'clock at the James pool hall, has been postponed until Wednesday evening at the same hour on account of some of the managers being unable to be present. The schedule for the first round of play closes Tuesday evening and a new schedule for the second round will be drafted at the meeting. Wednesday and Thursday of next week will be utilized for the playing of any postponed games.

that the present schedule may be completed before play is started on the second round.

DEMPSEY GIVES PRAISE TO BAER FOR HIS BATTLE

Former Champion Also Has Tribute For Schmeling

By JACK DEMPSEY

(As told to Edward J. Neil, Associated Press Sports Writer.)
New York, June 9 —(AP)—Boxing has found in Max Baer the kind of fighter who can ring the game back to the old days—the days when big men fought to knock each other out, and you couldn't find places big enough to hold every one who wanted to see it done.

It seems to me that the possibilities in this California youngster are only starting to be uncovered. As great a puncher as Schmeling couldn't hurt Baer. And until last night I hadn't seen any one fighting today who could out-throw the German.

So I believe that boxing's comeback now rests right on Baer's shoulders. He is only 24 years old, he's the biggest, strongest man fighting today, and he hits with a terrible power. He might have more trouble hitting a man as clever as the champion, Jack Sharkey, and he'd certainly have trouble evading the title-holder's left hand, but that will be a fight equal to anything that has gone before the ring.

It's possible that Max Schmeling's bravery, tremendous ability to take punishment, will be lost sight of in view of Baer's spectacular display, but I have never seen a more courageous exhibition than the German gave. He was hurt from the start, yet he never stopped trying, never stopped moving in. He's still one of the finest heavyweights I've ever seen.

As Baer moves along, it seems natural to expect that his boxing will improve, and the importance of big bouts will steady him. He has in himself the ability to become one of the greatest heavyweights of the ring.

At least he gave me the biggest thrill I've had in ten years—since the night a man named Firpo and I had an argument in the Polo Grounds.

to be on their toes and alive to what was going on.

A Dawesian Echo

Several days ago he senate was considering an amendment to a bill involving a change in postal rates. Time came for a vote and it was a tie.

The vice president wasn't in the chair to cast his vote which would have broken the tie. He was at a cabinet meeting. Republicans saw an excellent opportunity. Reed of Pennsylvania arose and asked: "Where is the vice president?"

One of the classic stories of the senate concern the time that a vice president wasn't in the chair on such an occasion. It was during Dawes' time and when the senate had before it the question of whether Charles E. Warren should be confirmed as Coolidge's choice for attorney general.

Dawes was in his downtown hotel when the vote was taken. He made a frantic effort to get to the senate chamber, but failed. Warren was not confirmed.

Reed reminded the senate of this story, and the fun the democrats had at Dawes' expense, when they criticized him for noting Garner's absence.

Revenge At Last

"Cactus Jack" waited for his opportunity to get even. It came.

A few days later the senate was considering an amendment by Connally of Texas to reduce veterans pensions 25 per cent. An effort was being made to put the reduction at 15 per cent.

The vote was a tie, 42 to 42.

Without a moment's hesitation Garner announced his vote in favor of Connally's amendment, making it 43 for 42 against.

Immediately opponents of the Connally amendment were on their

Garner, like all newcomers to the senate, is getting his share of senatorial "razzing," but he is returning in kind.

It's amusing to watch the progress of this friendly feud which flares up ever so often in the senate.

Garner came over from the house where he had ruled with such authority with certain ideas of his own as to parliamentary procedure. He didn't like Vice President Dawes, try to institute drastic reforms. He merely endeavored to speed up procedure whenever possible.

Borah went to him privately at one time and objected to the haste with which he dispatched a certain bill. Jack laughed, told the Idaho senator that he'd take a slap on the wrist at any time, even more, but senators were supposed feet with a point of order that Garner had no right to vote as it was a tie vote and would have failed.

Down came Garner's gavel and the cryptic retort:

"The chair has a vote and he has already cast it."

Citizens of the home city should get better acquainted. Knowing each other better will make them better citizens and with true cooperation they can advance the interests of their city to their mutual advantage.

Every time the Economists and Professors try to explain the world's depression and the way out, the more the average man becomes confused. We can only hope they will not lose their bearings and wander in circles, but that they will really find some cure.

Formerly on the China coast it was a custom for pirates to board a ship in the guise of passengers and, when a suitable opportunity occurred, seize the bridge and engine rooms—the vital points—and then proceed to their business of robbing passengers and looting cargo. Of course, the passengers lost what they had with them, but saved what they had at home. They had a better chance than we have with the tax collector. The way taxes are being raised in every way on everything, it will take about all a man has and can earn to pay taxes. He may not lose only what he has with him, but what he has at home as well.

Year by year the tourist traffic is increasing. Surely it is the duty of every community that desires this business to advertise their attractions in the newspapers so the people may know what there have to offer for their pleasure and comfort.

WHAT HAVE WE LOST?

By Dr. Joseph Fort Newton

Ian MacLaren told the story of a Liverpool merchant, his parishioner, who failed in business as so many have done today. By a twist of affairs he came down with a crash, plunging from plenty to poverty.

His minister called to offer sympathy and assistance, and found his friend as deep in the dumps as one ever gets.

"Everything has gone," he moaned. "I have lost everything. I am utterly ruined and done for."

"That's bad," said MacLaren. "So you've lost your reputation?"

"No, thank God," said the merchant somewhat indignantly. "My name and reputation are unscathed."

"Then your wife has left you, I suppose," said the minister.

"My wife," cried his friend, his eyes flashing anger, "my wife is an angel. Inval as the day is long. She is a perfect brick."

"I see," said the minister. "Then your children have turned their backs on you, or disgraced your good name?"

"I never seemed to know my children," said the merchant, "until this happened. They have been so brave and sympathetic—I can't tell you what they mean to me now."

"My dear old chap," said the pastor, "you told me you had lost everything. Why, you have lost nothing but a bag of money which does not matter. Love, loyalty, comradeship, honor—all the really important things are still yours. Cheer up and don't be a dunce."

It is a day of losses. Savings have melted away. As by a stroke whole industries have vanished. Not one of us but is poorer than we were a few years ago, if we reckon riches in money, and some of us have to fight to keep the wolf from the door.

But we have not lost everything. If we have health, honor, and the loyalty of those we love, we are still rich. No man is poor until he has lost his faith, his grit, and the integrity of his own soul. Forget your losses; count the only riches that count for anything.

Mother Kills Son
In Disagreement

Madrid, June 9.—(AP)—Aurora Rodriguez was arrested today on police charges that she killed her son, Hildegart Rodriguez, a writer for syndicated publications, as the result of a political argument. The son formerly was a Socialist, the party to which the mother belonged but recently he transferred his allegiance.

PARIS COUTURIERS LAUNCH THE DRESS-NEGLIGEE

Simplicity Blends With Elegance in New Creation Designed for Informal Entertaining

Cut like a dress, only more roomy and comfortable, are the new negligees, for dinner at home. Detachable puff sleeves and a sash of purple georgette add colorful contrast to Patou's pearl blue fleur de sole negligee at the left. For informal wear when entertaining, Patou makes the cute cape-scarf wrap (right), which is worn with the negligee.

By JEAN PATOU
(Written for NEA Service)

Paris, June 9.—While the detachable or negligee is altogether an accessory garment in a woman's wardrobe, still there is a continued change to be noted in it in the course of the last few years. This change is seen not only in the various novelties offered as each season comes around but in the style of the garment itself.

Only ten years ago, any change in the style of the negligee was solely the result of the desire on the part of women for something new, a desire which manifests itself in every category of dress, but in negligee this change was apparent in matters of detail only. This was the epoch of the filmy, vaporous garment, often presenting a very luxurious note by the wealth of lace, embroidery or metal weaves used which made it at the same time elegant and very feminine.

It lacked then, however, one of the most important elements that stamps the present day detachable, hat note of simplicity indispensable in a garment which must above all things be practical.

LARGE ISSUE OF TREASURY NOTES OVERSUBSCRIBED

However, Small Investors Will Be Able To Buy Some

Washington, June 9.—(AP)—The Treasury's first offering of securities since the gold payment clause was officially cancelled has been oversubscribed five times and officials hailed this today as evidence of the country's confidence in the government.

To big subscriptions, the books on the $900,000,000 offering are now closed, but for two days longer bids for securities in blocks of $10,000 or less will be received. Secretary Woodin had announced he would accept all of these regardless of how much the total exceeded the actual offering and last night he said large numbers of small investors already had taken advantage of the offer.

Bids for five billion dollars' worth were indicated from the preliminary returns of the Federal Reserve banks, even as the Department of Justice was announcing the new anti-gold hoarding drive had netted extensive results.

The old type of negligee often served too, as a pretext for some very delightful effects of coloring and transparency, but it was always on the fringe of the current mode.

This is no longer the case, though I think that too slavish a following of any fashion trend would be a useless servitude in a garment of this type. It is nevertheless true that the nearer a negligee looks like a dress, the more it is influenced by prevailing styles.

I think that in view of the part this garment is expected to play and what is expected of it—a certain amount of freedom without shapelessness—the dress-negligee is the best solution. It offers the dress linked with a great simplicity which contributes a great deal to the informality of, say, a dinner-party for a few intimate friends.

The dominant note of the negligee being freedom of movement, any sort of complicated effect must be avoided and it cannot afford any hint of showiness, even less so than in any other dress. I would even go so far as to say that dull fabrics are infinitely better suited to it than shiny surfaces.

One of the drawbacks of the hostess pajama was that of precisely being a little too obvious, not so much in its final aspect, but in its style. There have, of course, been some very attractive pajamas created but they were merely a passing fancy and their vogue lasted just as long as any fantasy is expected to endure.

Pajamas are far better fitted to the part they now play in women's wardrobes, that of sleeping garments or for lounging and far removed from the detachable, which is perfectly correct year for informal receiving at home.

So far as color is concerned in respect to the negligee, here the mode need not be considered at all. Color is merely a question of complexion, hair, taste and in some measure, environment.

To be quite complete, some sort of wrap, conceived in the same spirit of lightness, should complete it. It may be nothing more important than a scarf, it may even be sheer and a mere wisp of a thing but it must always be simple.

Oak Forest Leaves

By Mrs. Lester Hoyle

OAK FOREST—A very enjoyable family picnic was held Sunday in Becker's woods, by the side of a cool stream of water, where the children spent a delightful afternoon wading. A brush pile was set afire and weepers roasted, providing lots of fun in spite of the heat.

Those present were the Misses Mary and Ida Becker and little Barbara. Paul Becker and the families of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Becker; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Levan; Mrs. Henry Burrows; Mrs. George Brooks; John Lawrence, Lester Hoyle, A. C. Boyer, Walter and Ed Hoyle, Floyd Missman, Flave Plock, Andrew Fisher, Mrs. Jennie Hackbarth was a guest at the picnic.

Mrs. Harry McGinnis returned home Tuesday from St. Francis hospital in Freeport, where she underwent an operation last Thursday. Except for feeling weak she is recovering very satisfactorily and suffers no pain.

DARLING FOOL

by MABEL McELLIOTT
LILA O'NEAL SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MONNIE O'DARE returns from a trip to Europe to find DAN CARDIGAN, with whom she had long been in love, seriously injured in an automobile accident. Moreover, just before the accident Dan had married SANDRA LAWRENCE who, pretending to be Monnie's friend, had been trying to win him from her. Sandra had even told Dan that Monnie intended to marry CHARLES EUSTACE, another admirer.

Dan's father asks Monnie to come to the hospital. Dan dies, holding her hand. In the days that follow Monnie tries to pick up her life anew. She lives with her mother, sister and two brothers. The O'Dares have little money. Monnie works in a doctor's office.

Monnie is disturbed because Charles, hitherto one of her best friends, seems cool toward her. Unhappy and unsettled, she decides to marry ARTHUR MACKENZIE, rich, middle-aged New Yorker whom she met on her trip. Mackenzie comes to see her. A little later the same evening Charles arrives. Obviously unwell, he stays on, refusing to leave before the other man. At length Mackenzie departs. Monnie tells Charles he has behaved unacceptably. He declares she is not going to marry Mackenzie.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XLVII

THEY stood there, flaring at each other. The man, tall and lean and straight, his eyes darkened with something very like fury. The girl, small, golden, in a dress of some thin soft stuff, her head thrown back, defying him.

Kay, coming to the door of the living room, stared for a moment. Then comprehension dawned in her eyes and, unseen by both combatants, she slipped away.

"What business is it of yours whom I marry?" Monnie O'Dare repeated defiantly.

Charles Eustace, two steps below her on the narrow flight of stairs, smiled ironically. She was so lovely in her anger. He did not answer and this enraged Monnie further.

"It's none of your affair!" she flared hotly. "You don't care what happens to me, anyhow. You never did."

"Ah, don't!" Charles' irony was marked now. Folding his arms and leaning against the balustrade, he considered this. "What makes you think that?"

Monnie was trembling with anger and excitement. She did not even bother to answer his question.

"Treating me as you have the past few weeks," she pursued, following some grievance of her own. "Coming to the office today and speaking to me so—so—her voice broke indignantly on the words but she found it again after a moment.

"Then to come here tonight—to behave so badly—showing all of us just what a frightful opinion you have of me!"

CHARLES interrupted this tirade to ask coolly, "What makes you think I have a bad opinion of you?"

"You used to be my friend," Monnie rushed on, quite as if he had not spoken. "You used to be so—well, really wonderful. Last summer—last spring."

"Ah, yes. But that was then," the young man reminded her cryptically.

"I wasn't any different," Monnie reproached him. "I was the same. What's changed you?"

Charles shook his head, almost sadly. "You've not changed? And yet you're going to marry this fellow."

"He's fine and honorable and good," Monnie defended her absent suitor. "He'll take care of me as I want to be taken care of. Anyhow, it can't possibly concern you. You and your—your Contessa!"

She fairly flung the title at him. Charles, whitening under the attack, could not help smiling.

"My Contessa? I don't know what you're talking about."

"Oh, don't you? Didn't you fight a duel for her last year? Didn't she break your heart?"

There, she didn't care how she hurt him. She wanted to. He deserved it!

In an instant Charles' strong fingers were gripping her arms. He was looking down at her with an expression of amusement and impatience.

"You little fool," he said in a caressing voice which took the sting from the words. "You—darling—little fool."

Suddenly Monnie was limp in his arms, was sobbing against his shoulder. Tenderly Charles lifted her streaming face.

"I'm sorry. You know I didn't mean that." He was no longer arrogant but strangely humble. "You know how I feel about you, Monica O'Dare."

SOMEHOW, Monnie never knew exactly how although later she tried hard to remember, they were sitting side by side on the shabbily carpeted stairs. Charles' big handkerchief, smelling of tobacco and a faint whiff of cologne, was in her hand.

"My Contessa," she called her, the young man was saying very gently, "was a beautiful and very heartless young woman who led me a pace for a time. I didn't crack up over her. I was a wreck to begin with and finding out what a shell she was just put the crowning touch on me."

"You were in love with her then," Monnie accused, feeling weak as water at the thought.

"I was—well, fascinated," explained Charles, patiently. "I was ill—not quite bright in the head, I imagine. When I found out what she was really like—using me as a stalking horse for her own purposes—I went a little crazy. I came back home, hating like, hating everybody. Then—"

She prompted him. "Yes, then?"

"I met you," Charles told her. "You know this—you must know it, Monnie. I've been in love with you from the start."

Did she know it. At any rate it was sweet to hear him say the
